

Morning assembly sharing 18th January, 2016
6B Carmen Mak and 6B Jenny Cheung

Jenny: Hi Carmen! How's your performance in the examination? Have you got a good result?

Carman: Don't mention it. I failed in four subjects. They made my flesh creep.

Jenny: Oh, I am sorry to hear that. What's the matter? Did you prepare well?

Carman: I did study for a long time. However I still can't get a better result. I don't want to study anymore. I want to drop one elective.

Jenny: Oh! Don't act on impulse. Dropping the elective will let you regret. You are shirking your responsibility.

Carman: I exerted myself to complete the exam already. But my result still can't be improved obviously.

Jenny: Um... I had the same situation as yours and I have tried hard to use different methods to tackle it. Finally, my result is improving. Thanks to teachers' help and support. Having any difficulties, you should talk to your teachers, Mom and Dad. This is the best way to solve the problem.

Carman: There is no doubt that asking teachers is the best way to solve our difficulties. Teachers understand our problem of learning more. When you ask teachers a question, they are more than willing to answer you.

Jenny: Oh, you've got the point now. Don't give up easily. You know there was a DSE candidate in 2012 who can't see nor hear. She has to sense the text by hand.

Carman: I know her. Finally, she sensed the text by her lips and she is studying in the City University now.

Jenny: So don't give up. Stay strong and positive.

Carman: Thank you for your encouragement. I won't give up anymore.

Jenny: Have a good day, Carmen!

Carman: Thank you.
