His name was Chan Ho Chun, but most people knew him affectionately as 'Uncle Chan'. To me, though, he was always Grandpa.
For 65 years, my grandfather woke up at dawn to get ready for work. While he was gathering his tools, my grandmother was lovingly cooking him breakfast. After breakfast, he would hurry to catch the tram to Central. Then he would make his way to Theatre Lane and quickly set up his stall. While they were walking to work, businessmen stopped to see him. They would queue patiently just to spend a few minutes with him because he always brightened up their day.

Yes, my grandfather was a shoe shiner. He cheerfully greeted his customers and went about his work briskly and efficiently. In less than a minute, he could make a shoe shine brightly, like a piece of black glass.

Hong Kong changed a lot over those years, but my grandpa never did. He always worked hard to provide for his family. As a result, they always had enough, though they were poor.

Now, my grandfather is gone, but I never want to forget him. So today, I have his tools and I am on my way to Central. I am going to remember you, Grandpa.

I have lived in Parkview Estate for six months and I am concerned about the environmental problems in my neighbourhood.

When I walk around my neighbourhood, I see people throwing rubbish out of their windows, and there are air conditioners dripping water on my head. My grandmother has recently slipped on a pool of water on the ground and hurt herself.

Many residents leave their polystyrene lunch boxes in the alley, sometimes with leftover food inside. I have seen rats and cockroaches crawling around the containers. This can spread disease.

I think all the residents should keep our neighbourhood clean.

Text 6

Have you ever wondered what happens to your rubbish after you have thrown it away? Most rubbish goes to the three landfills in Hong Kong. The landfills are filling up quickly and will be full by 2015. Soon, we will give no space for our rubbish.

There are several things we can do to reduce waste. Always take your own shopping bag when you go shopping. Try to choose goods with less packaging. Before you buy something, always ask yourself, 'Do I really need it? Give old clothes, computers and toys to charity. Use rechargeable batteries. Also, put old newspapers, scrap paper, plastic bottles and soft drink cans in recycling bins.
