Flag-selling for Fung Kai Elderly Home Proves a Flying Success

Allen Lo 4A

On 18th February 2012, a group of Form 4 students went to Tin Shui Wai to sell flags in order to raise funds for the Fung Kai Elderly Home.

At first, the intrepid group of student volunteers stood on a busy street and waited for people to buy flags, but no one noticed them. Then they changed their strategy and copied Kelvin Lam's method – keep moving towards the crowds, bravely and politely asking people to buy flags.

Soon after this strategic change, a teenage boy bought a flag, and the volunteers felt encouraged. It was the first step in conquering the challenge of the day!

Later, they saw a group of tourists and flocked towards them, asking for donations. The result was the students accomplished their mission and returned with a heavy money bag!

Fundraising is like working in society, you cannot be timid and apprehensive because that will just waste your time and opportunities, and you will not succeed. Next, good communication is also important. You should be patient and polite to others. If you are rude and pushy, people will be scared of you or annoyed by you.

A moment for parent-child cooperation

Do you like cooking? Have you ever cooked with your parents? On 26 May 2012, our school held a cooking competition as one of the activities to celebrate the 80th anniversary of the Fung Kai Public School.

The theme of the competition was 'noodles.' The assessment criteria included nutrition, teamwork, and creativity. Parents and their children had to finish cooking their creative dishes in thirty minutes. There were totally eighteen teams from Fung Kai schools, three from kindergartens, nine from primary schools and six from secondary schools.

For the primary section, parents designed the dishes themselves, turning ordinary noodles into mouth-watering dishes. Every team had to add a clever twist to their dish, for example, forming heart-shaped egg noodles, fried seafood noodles, cool pizza noodles, noodles served cold and so on. All were very original. One of the most impressive dishes was cooked by a team called Noodle Buffs, who shaped dried seaweed into the number '80' to symbolize Fung Kai's anniversary.

In this parent-child activity, children helped make the dishes happily. Besides, they helped parents to slice vegetables and do the washing up. Many of them had had cooking experience before, and tried their hand at making creative desserts and noodle dishes, and even dumplings. Our chefs of the future, I dare say.

Cook for Leisure (一麵悠閒隊) were the champions of the primary section of the competition. They also received the Most Cooperative Award and the Most Healthy Award. At the beginning of the competition, the winning parent said they were cooking casually and were there for fun. Their win certainly came as a surprise.

The event was a big success as it helped to cultivate a better parent-child relationship. The contestants had a blast cooking while the rest of us were excitedly watching on and tasting various fine dishes like a gourmet chef in a Michelin-starred restaurant.

Fabulous Performance at Liu Man Shek Tong
Ela Lai
The Spring Outen Band came to our school and cast their spell to bring students on an exciting musical journey through half a century. They performed emotionally stirring and exhilarating songs based on yesterday, performing live music from the Beatles, Michael Jackson, Ben Jovi and Lady Gaga. The students experienced the magic and delight of the masterpiece.

Kobe Lee
Fung Kai Liu Man Shek Tong Secondary School held a rather unique rowing competition on May 20th, 2011. Instead of rowing our boats down a stream, as the nursery rhyme recounts, we "rowed" them in our school hall!

All competitors were placed into three groups, and they competed against each other in these groups.
The most competitive group by far was the one made up of Form 3 classes. I was impressed by their classmates who held a handmade banner to cheer on their peers, and encouraged their "warriors" during the competition. It made the atmosphere more electric.

The one-passing part also got us excited because if you passed the one to the next row later, the other teams would take the lead, and your score would plummet.

The final 10 seconds of the competition almost took our breath away, partly because of the physical exertion involved and partly because of the anxiety associated with competing against others. During the last 10 seconds, every participant was struggling to row as fast as they could. Instead of racing for their "warriors", their classmates were standing outside the hall watching the action on the big screen. Finally, the referee blew her whistle and class 3D was pronounced the winner.

Although the other classes did not win, they developed team spirit and friendship. In the end, that's what really counts.

Yellow House - not yellow at all!
Anki So
Our school had Sports Day on the 18th and 19th of January, 2010. It was a good chance for students to relax and do some exercise. On Sports Day, a lot of events were held, for example high jump, long jump, relay race, javelin and so on. In many races, everyone was striving to finish the race. Although some of the competitors couldn't win and were the last ones on the track, they did not give up until they arrived at the finish line. In the cheering team competition, all performances were unique.

The winner was Yellow House. After Sports Day, we interviewed Maggie Lam and Wang So. They were from Yellow House and Purple House. Yellow House's team wore their PE uniforms for the cheering competition because Maggie Lam thought that buying costumes cost too much money and did not get bonus marks. She and her members focused on the performance instead of the fancy outfit. As a result, Yellow House won the competition for the first time in twelve years while Purple House was awarded the House Championship and the members were deeply moved and very excited. These two Houses won because they had teamwork. Apart from that, Yellow House attributed their success to their dance routine which was lively and full of energy; their chairperson was the seed of it!

Sports Day was very successfully held because the students were very supportive. I hope Sports Day next year will be even better than this year's.

School Musical 2009 - The Pied Piper

Fung Kai Liu Man Shek Tong Secondary students found a refreshing and interesting way to learn English, after watching a great musical performance - The Pied Piper - at the school hall on 27th February. Both judges, Mr William Yip and Ms May Wu, gave positive responses; they enjoyed the show, and were particularly impressed with the flow of the drama and the costumes, which, they felt, just appropriately characterised various roles.

The Pied Piper, plays irresistible tunes with his pipes. With his help, the musician that the rats have caused the town goes. The mayor promises to pay him ten thousand dollars, but then refuses to keep his word after the piper accomplishes his task. Out of rage, the piper plays his pipe again and there the story ends with a surprise!

Sheung Shui Got Talent
Two casts from Sheung Shui spring surprise at the 59th Hong Kong Speech Festival.
A highlight of this year's Speech Festival, held between 28 November and 19 December, was the immensely competitive event, dramatic dialogue. The adjudicator had a hard time choosing the winner but was particularly impressed with the winning performance delivered by two Form Four students from a CMI school in Sheung Shui, Fung Kai Liu Man Shek Tong Secondary School. Lam Hei Tung and Yip Chun Chiu staged an episode of the all-time favourite musical Cats, capturing the audience with their incredibly lively acting and fabulous costumes. Lam and Yip were awarded second place with only one mark separating them from the champions. Their mentor Mr Lai was very proud of the duo, who chose amongst the 23 teams which were mostly from LM schools in the city. Other winners from the same school included Wong Yu Yee and Liu Hei Tung, who won third place and first place respectively in the solo verse speaking section. Efforts also paid off in the closed speaking section when both the Form One girls' team and the Form Two boys' team secured first place while Form 4A students beat the odds and walked away with third place.

Olympic Spirit

If you think the Olympics are for sports enthusiasts only, take a look at this school where language learners share the passion too. FKMSTSS held an English Week from 14th to 18th April featuring the Olympics. During the week, different activities were organized for students to have fun and learn more about the Games. For example, Form Four and Six students operated a number of game booths at lunchtime in the playground and the school hall. Students participated very actively during the attractive prizes.
